ANNOUNCEMENTS.

To the Editor of the Eagle.

Please announce G. W. Stinson as a candidate for Representative of the 8th District, subject to the decision of the people at the polls.

A. S. Nelson, of Leon, was in the city yesterday.

Messrs. Z. A. Campbell and T. E. Simpson, of Pratt, are in the city.

R. C. Johnson, of Kingman, was in the city a few hours yesterday.

B. F. Orcutt, of Topeka, is numbered among yesterday's arrivals.

Get your tickets today for the Schubert Quartette if you want a good seat.

Mr. C. K. Wait and his daughter, Miss Mable, left last evening for Kansas city.

Mrs. C. F. Maud leaves this morning for her old home, Milwaukee, Wis., in search of health and pleasure.

Mr. C. Scott, who has for some weeks been suffering intensely with a catarrh on the hand, is resting some easier now.

Mr. Chas. C. Black of Winfield, secretary of the D. M. &amp; A., and an incorporator of the new Wichita lines, made us a call yesterday.

Frank and Charley Cooper left last evening for Kansas City, where they will remain some days attending the fair and visiting friends.

Some of the members of the legal fraternity are quietly discussing the propriety of challenging the doctors to play them a game of base ball.

A dancing club composed of twenty-five prominent young society men is formed. They intend to give dances from time to time during the winter.

Chas. Freeman, the popular young proprietor of the Topeka avenue stables, has sold out to two gentlemen from Missouri, who will immediately take possession.

Tickets for the Schubert Quartette will be on sale this morning at 8 o'clock at the Santa Fe ticket office. No one person will be allowed to purchase more than six tickets.

Persons having books belonging to the Sunday school library at the Episcopal church, or any that would be appropriate for same, are requested to bring them to the church next Sunday.

Mrs. L. S. Freeman, who was so seriously injured in the accident of Monday afternoon, has been moved, with her sister, Mrs. H. L. Dowling, to the home of their mother, Mrs. Beach, on Market street, and both are doing very well.

In speaking of Mrs. Louis Patlak, the soprano with the Schubert Quartette, the St. Paul Pioneer Press says: "Mrs. Patlak never sang more sweetly than in the Shadow song from Dinorah. She is the finest singer that has appeared in St. Paul for years."

A test game of croquet between Messrs. E. W. Willett and E. S. Pence on the one side and Messrs. W. D. Stanley and Prof. A. W. Sicker on the other, has been decided upon. Ten games will be played and the side that wins—will beat.

Charles Stern, a well known capitalist of Quincy, Ill., has been visiting Eley &amp; McMechan, attorneys of this city. Mr. Stern was captivated with Wichita, and made heavy investments in real estate here. Mr. Stern is a son of Joseph Stern, the great merchant prince of New York City.

W. T. Leggett, the excursion agent, from Terre Haute, Ind., has returned from a business trip to Norwich, and has completed arrangements with the town company of that place to run monthly excursions to that point from Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. We congratulate Norwich on its success in securing Mr. Leggett.

The ladies of the west side do not think all the ice cream should be eaten out of the "Big Silent." They propose to have some of the best of that luxury for westsiders. It will be served at the Dodge avenue Presbyterian church on Friday evening next. This means an ice cream festival with all the choice eatables.

When it comes to a matter of school houses and of money expended for their erection, we venture the opinion that no city east or west, of the age of this city, ever equalled this city. The greatest single expense which this city has to bear today is the school expense, as every tax payer knows. Relief is rapidly coming, but in the mean time, in behalf of those who are footing the bills, we suggest that our present school board go a little slower. Our people are a very willing people, enterprising, generous and ambitious, but they desire to be just to themselves.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.

Tell Walton Completely Vindicated of the Charge of Arson.

Interesting Trial of Wade and Two Members of His Gang for Horse Stealing.

Court did not convene yesterday morning until near 10:30. The interest in the forenoon session centered in the case of Tell W. Walton, the brother of Wirt Walton, whose recent tragic death is still fresh in the minds of the people. Mr. Walton, who is the talented editor of the Caldwell Journal, was accused, with C. Rodgers, of burning a house containing a printing press, within the Oklahoma country, about two years ago. The judge heard the evidence of the witnesses for the state, and as it was in no wise sufficient to sustain the charge, he ordered the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty, which was immediately done.

The case of the United States vs. Al. Sone was called. The defendant appeared and pleaded not guilty to the charge of larceny. Court was then adjourned until the afternoon.

The first business in the afternoon session was the dismissal of the witnesses in the case against George Morris, after which was called the United States vs. James Wade, Doc Crunk and John Trussler. Mr. McMeekin, who had been appointed attorney for the defendants, asked that Davis, a prisoner in the county jail awaiting removal to the state penitentiary, be brought into the court, as he was considered a necessary witness. The request was granted.

A controversy arose as to whether the indictment should be joint or several. The court held that since all the men were charged with the same offense it be treated as a joint indictment. Two pre-emptory challenges were made by the defense; first Mr. Wisner, second Mr. Bass. Mr. Bass's was sworn in in place of the former and Mr. Stunkle, a Sumner county farmer, in place of the latter.

W. C. Perry, the state attorney, then arose and in a few words presented the case to the jury. On or about the 10th of November 1884, Curtis living on the south fork of the Canadian river in the Territory had two horses stolen from his pasture; he started in pursuit; and in the state of Arkansas overtook Trussler and Davis with the animals. He arrested them and was returning with his prisoners and property when he was charged upon in Pottawatomie county by Doc Crunk and Jim Wade and forced to give up his prisoners and horses. The state he said will further show that these men are the members of an organized band of horse thieves which have been terrorizing that section of country.

The defendants' attorney waiving statement to the jury the examination of witnesses for the state was immediately commenced.

Robt. Curtis was first called. He said he lived in the Kiowa-Comanche reservation, and was acquainted with the defendants. On the 25th of Oct. 1885, he had two horses stolen and setting out on their trail overtook Trussler and Davis in the Pottawatomie reservation, regained his property and took these men prisoners. About the 10th of Nov. he had reached Widow Deers' ranch in Pottawatomie county on his return, and remained there over night. At day break when he went out to find his horses, Crunk and Wade came riding up on horseback and playing Winchester rifles against his breast, demanded the horses and prisoners. The stolen horses were after some parley saddled and ridden off. About a month afterwards he saw the horses; Davis had one, Crunk and Trussler the other.

On cross-examination his testimony was not changed. Crunk, who who was taking the deepest interest in the trial, became displeased with Curtis' evidence and cried out, "You are a liar."

He had scarcely spoken the words before Judge Foster gave the usual severe and scathing rebuke that he is not likely to repeat the words in court.

R. E. Coble was then called. He was a deputy marshal; knew the defendants and was with Curtis when he made the arrest of the parties. Trussler was riding a black horse. Crunk was in a wagon ahead. Being cross-examined he said that Crunk was on his way to Texas when arrested and had, he was told, stolen horses in his possession.

Isaac Goldell, a half breed, was the next witness. He lived in the Sac and Fox agency; had known Wade for six years; had worked on his ranch; Wade came to his house with Crunk and hired two horses to go for his men; returned next Monday with two other horses and Trussler and Davis; they paid for the hire of his horses. He was cross-examined but his conversation with his hired man Porter was not admissible evidence and he was dismissed and the state rested its case.

The first witness called for the defense was Doc Crunk himself. He is of medium size, about 40, rather slender, has thin lips, large, bulging eyes, black hair, clipped moustache and a shrewd, mean-looking face.

He said he was moving into Texas from Pottawatomie December 1, when arrested. He was driving in a wagon and Trussler was riding some distance behind him. On November 12 he and Jim Wade started in a hack for the Sac agency, and when at Ike Goldell's he took supper and hired two horses of him to go and rescue two men whom he feared would be mobbed as they were going through a bad country. He rode to Widow Deers', alighted and after Jim Wade had put the bars down entered the yard and said, "Good morning," to Curtis, who immediately handed him over his fire arms. He entered the house, all the men sat down to dinner, Wade loaned Curtis $2.50, Trussler traded horses with the latter, then he, Wade, Davis and Trussler all started away. He did not place a gun against Curtis' breast, and the trade was satisfactory all around.

On cross-examination, his story was very cleverly ridiculed by Attorney Perry.

John Trussler, called "Panhandle John," a yellow complexioned, curly haired, blue eyed, solemn looking man of about thirty-five, was next called. His story of the transaction was about the same as Crunk's.

Silas Davis, a boy of not more than twenty, with an ugly, ungainly appearance, next took the stand and told substantially the same story as Trussler.

Jim Wade, last of this lovely quartette, was next called. He was a brother of Bill Wade and the leader of the notorious Wade gang. He is of medium height, has dark brown hair and moustache, blue eyes and hardly appeared the ideal bandit chieftain as he was slouched up to the witness stand. He drawled out about the same story as the other three.

Curtis, upon being recalled by Mr. Perry, said he had never received any money or horses in the trade which the defendants said Trussler had made with him.

The testimony was then closed and the jury excused until this morning.

The grand jury came into the room and made another report, returning thirty-two indictments.

MARRIED.

Mr. Leroy Sides and Miss Mary Mitchell, both of Andale were married at the residence of the bride yesterday evening. Both the contracting parties are well-known in this city.

NOT LYNCHED.

It was circulated upon the streets yesterday morning that John McKinney, the Valley Center murderer, had been mobbed, having been moved from jail at Wellington. A message was received near noon stating that the prisoner was safe and sound.

COUNCIL VAMOOSED.

The city council will leave for Caldwell this morning, where they will spend the day and return tomorrow. They were sent an invitation by the council of that town and will go down well assured that they will have a royal time.

MEETING OF BOAT CLUB.

The Wichita boat club will meet at the auditor's office this evening at 7:30 o'clock sharp. It is very desirable that all the members of the club be present as some business of special importance demand their attention.

BASE BALL.

The game yesterday afternoon between the Clippers, of Wichita, and the Athletics, of Andover, resulted in a score of 15 to 4 in favor of the former. It was a well played game. Jetty was umpire, and Reiley and Jetty, junior, constituted the battery of the Clippers.

JOINTIST.

James Turner, a jointist, who operated on West Douglas avenue, was arrested yesterday upon the complaint of John Riley. He was waiting in front of Justice Thomas, and owing to circumstances he was allowed to be sent to jail, where he will remain until probably tomorrow.

WHAT DO YOU SAY?

Farmer Doolittle lifted up his high voice yesterday, and said that he would like for that baseball, W. F. Green, to name his bats so the fans could see who they had to beat the next time. He said if they would play the same tough nine he was in for a game and would allow the proceeds to go to the Home.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

The entertainment of Prof. Grainger at the opera house last evening, for the benefit of the K. of P. band, drew a much larger house than the evening before. It gave general satisfaction, and was heartily enjoyed by all. The professor, from the remarks of the audience, has made a most favorable impression, and scores a complete success.

POLICE COURT.

In the police court yesterday morning the only case called was that of Tom Bohanna, charged with a plain drunk. He was fined $5 and execution was suspended.

Judge Glenn, on account of sickness, was compelled to leave shortly after the morning session, and did not again hold court during the day.

LAWN FETE.

The social last evening at the residence of E. J. Foster, on West Lawrence drew a good sized crowd. The lawn was beautifully and tastefully arranged with booths, lanterns and stands; music was played, refreshments served and a general good time enjoyed by all present.

RETURNED.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Deam returned yesterday morning from their northern trip. They visited Manitowish and attended exhibitions at Chicago, Minneapolis and Milwaukee. Robert says he enjoyed himself immensely among the northern lakes and cool breezes. Some of the "eliquis" say his trip run out at Newton, and under the circumstances he took a slow train from that point.

LAW CLUB.

Last Saturday night a number of the lawyers of the city held a meeting and organized a law club. McMahon was elected president and J. F. McCoy. The object is to promote social intercourse between the members of the bar and to engage in the study of the more difficult subjects.

The club will hold a meeting tomorrow night.

BENEVOLENT HOME.

The annual meeting of the Ladies Benevolent Home will be held at their rooms this afternoon at 3 o'clock, for the election of four directors to fill the vacancy of those whose term of office expires. All who have contributed one dollar, or more, during the past year, are considered members. Annual dues for membership for the ensuing year will be acceptable. A full attendance is desirable.

MRS. S. E. MITCHELL, Sec.

A VISITOR.

Mr. W. W. Cheshire, of Crownpoint, Ind., is in the city. He arrived a few days since and is on his way home for an extensive visit in the western and northern part of the state. He is much delighted with this state and especially is he pleased with Wichita. He is not backward in saying that this is the most wonderful city he has ever struck. He was here about one year ago and saw Wichita then and can now detect the improvement. He is completely filled with western enthusiasm, and says he is compelled to put in a good word for Wichita at every opportunity.

NEW WEST SIDE HOTEL.

R. M. Gardner last night opened his new hotel on the West side. This handsome building, which is one of the many improvements that the West Wichitans are now making, cost about $25,000, and is a complete and elegant hotel building.

Everything from cellar to garret is new and fine. On the first floor in front are the office and parlor; in the rear a large, clean and well lighted dining room. On the second floor are the sleeping apartments, all fitted out entire with new furniture. On the third floor, besides the smaller rooms, is a large hall for dancing.

Last night the doors of the new house were thrown to the public. People came in crowds to see it and to wish the genial proprietor success in his new enterprise.

An elegant supper was served and everybody partook of the cakes, jellies, salads, fish and cold meats with a relish which tells better than words of their satisfaction.

Afterwards the younger guests went to the hall and to the music of the orchestra danced the merry hours away.

The Riverview, which is the name given by the proprietor to his new house, started out under the most favorable auspices and promises to rank among the best of the city.

THE HALF-DAY SYSTEM

Adopted by the School Board Last Night in the Wards in Which It is Judged Necessary.

Non-Residents Get the Bounce and Churches are Refused the Use of the School Buildings, Beginning at an Early Date.

The board of education held a special meeting last night in the city chamber with Taylor, Campbell, Caldwell, Wingard, Brown, Slaven present, Katz, Levy and Lewis absent.

Mr. Campbell as chairman of committee on teachers and salaries reported that Misses McVicar, McGee and Mills had been employed as teachers. His report being adopted he stated that he would recommend that a room be rented or a house built in order to accommodate the pupils of the lower grades in the Second ward. He seemed to favor putting up a building on the lots on Main street just north of the county block. He thought the new building should contain two rooms and be cheaply but comfortably constructed.

He also suggested that there should be a department created in the city schools which would serve as preparatory school for the regular classes. On concluding his remarks he moved that the committee on buildings and grounds be instructed to put up a house not costing more than $800 on the lots owned by the city on North Main street. Slaven proved his second.

Wingard—Have examined the second ward building and it is impossible for me to accommodate the pupils. It seems to me that the Park school building might be utilized with less money. He spoke of a preparatory department. This town ought to have a school of that kind. I don't object to that motion, but if Park building is not too far out of the way I would be in favor of fixing it, so as it would meet the demands.

Campbell—The part of Wingard's proposition that I object to is that of putting children in the basement. I don't believe in it. I believe in the healthy. The objection he mentions himself and that is that the building is not convenient. We can put up a small frame building that will be comfortable, and handy, and will meet the demands.

Wingard—I amend the motion by, placing the amount at $1,000. His motion was seconded by Caldwell.

Taylor—I want to say something on this question. I want the board to think about it very carefully before it makes its final decision, for there will be a good deal of kicking if you make a mistake. If the basement room in the Park school building would do, it would cost much less.

Brown—Is it proposed to relieve the primary department of the school by this means?

Campbell—It would relieve the Second ward and the Park school.

The city superintendent, Prof. Chidester, then said that there one hundred pupils in the primary department in the Second ward, and eighty in the Park school.

Brown—Are there any children under 7 years of age attending school?

Chidester—There are a few.

Brown—I don't take this idea of erecting a frame building. I don't approve of this plan unless it is an absolute necessity. I don't see that this will relieve the primary department for only a short time. I think there is something more available. I don't think that the board can enforce the law of keeping all children out of school under seven years of age. My plan for relieving the primary departments would be to adopt the one-half day system. I think we can afford to adopt it on the ground of necessity. Rather than resort to this I would prefer the one-half day plan.

Prof. Chidester was called upon to give his ideas of Mr. Brown's plan. He said: "I have had experience in that system, but would not recommend it. The people became dissatisfied and it caused some trouble. The children are not so much benefited, but I do think that fifty pupils in a room for a half day is better than one hundred for a whole day. I don't think the system would prove satisfactory to the board."

Wingard—I am heartily in favor of the half day system. The children will like it better. The parents who will oppose the system are those who want to keep their children away from home as long as possible.

Campbell—Am of the opinion it is the best plan we can adopt. With the consent of my second I will withdraw my motion.

Caldwell—Am in favor of doing the best we can, and do not favor the half-day system. Am opposed to building little frame houses over the town, but think we had best rent. I withdraw my second to Mr. Campbell's motion.

Campbell—I move that the superintendent be instructed to divide the primary classes wherever he thinks it necessary into two classes, and each be allowed to attend the school one half day.

Slaven seconded this motion.

Brown—The most satisfactory school I ever knew was conducted on the half-day system. The students will make more rapid progress. Where the plan is in vogue I do not think the school boards could be induced to make a change. Three hours for one day is enough for the smaller students.

Slaven—There is too much schooling. Nine months each year from the time the children are five years old to the time they are fifteen is a little too much.

Wingard—Think six hours a day is too much time for a child to be kept into a school room. Half that time is a plenty.

Caldwell—In the first place they are not in the school room six hours. In the next place not all in the primary grades are ready years old. Some are even 15. Talk about chaining them down! You don't know anything about it. It is a rest for students to come to school when they have such teachers as we have in this city now. The people in the Second ward will make a kick, and they have a cause to do it.

The motion was put to a vote and carried, Caldwell being the only one who voted against it.

Campbell—I move that the committee on buildings and grounds be instructed to prepare the room in the basement of the Park school building for their regular students.

Brown—The idea strikes me as a good one. There are pupils who are not fitted to go in any of the grades. The scheme is so good a one that I don't want to see it damaged. Would it look like a disgrace to send them there? Would it not be better to have them by themselves?

Prof. Chidester said he could not see much against allowing department to be placed in the southwest room in the lower story of the high school building. After a little discussion Mr. Campbell changed his original motion in a way, allowing that room to be utilized. The question was disposed of without further debate. The question then arose as to who should have charge of the department and it seemed to be the general opinion that one of the assistants in the high school should be allotted that work.

Mr. Wingard said that it was the custom of some country people to send their children to the city in the winter and they would go to the city schools without saying anything. He was of the opinion that such should not be allowed. He finally moved that where students are not residents of the city they will not be allowed to attend school under any circumstances. His motion prevailed and the city superintendent was instructed to throw overboard accordingly.

Mr. Wingard stated that he had granted a certain denomination the privilege of holding Sunday school in the Park school building until cold weather made its appearance, and he would then favor allowing no denomination the use of any of the buildings.

Mr. Caldwell moved that when fire becomes necessary all the school buildings be closed against the various denominations, and Slaven soon assisted him in placing his motion before the chair.

Mr. Campbell said it was asking too much of the school districts to expect them to furnish room for churches. Suppose the house should be burned down, he said, in what position would this board be placed in? It would violate our policy. He then amended the motion placing the time at the first of next month that all the school buildings should be vacated by all the denominations. He received a second and the amendment carried.

TIN HORNS TO THE FRONT.

Night before last Mr. W. S. Morgan, who had been out driving with his wife, was returning from the stable after putting away his buggy, he was set upon by a gang of four men. Before they could successfully carry out their assault, however, Morgan knocked two or three of them down; the police came up, and the gang took to flight and escaped arrest. "These men were not highwaymen," said a gentleman, shortly afterwards, "but members of the tin horn gambling fraternity, speculators of humanity that sleeps on gambling tables, rises at three to breakfast at six, eats at lunch counters or in rear of Chinese laundries, detected by all good citizens, and hunted by the police."

VILLAINOUS ASSAULT.

Monday evening about 8 o'clock, a highly respectable lady living on South Topeka, but whose name is withheld, was going down South Street, she was seized at the corner of English street by a large man who had been standing in the shade of the building. He caught her by the arm and threw her upon the pavement, when she screamed and attracted the attention of two daughters of Mrs. Klentz, the milliner on North Main, and two gentlemen who were driving down Market in a hack. Rushing to her rescue they found she had fainted and was lying upon the pavement. After assisting her to her feet the gentlemen started in pursuit of the dastardly villain, but he had gotten so much the start that he could not be overtaken. The two young ladies say that he ran past them, but in the darkness and excitement they did not observe him closely enough to give a good description.

FOR THOSE WHO FELT IT.

Down and over the Nile of Kansas yesterday morning there rolled a dense fog whose moist gray folds veiled the face of the rising sun, closed out the blue sky and left world and world, cease and pasture dripping with an unwonted moisture. The first tears for the descending year dropped in solemn cadence from each leaf and blade, and the heart of nature was touched with sadness. Nor storms nor floods nor the thunder's chase foretold fading wood and desolate fields in our own beloved Kansas, for here the smile of summer faded imperceptibly out as fades the flush of a maiden's cheek when serious thoughts for a quiet moment touch heart and brain. It may be a month, it may be but a fortnight only, when that white enveloping harbinger of yester's morn will be made icy with a finger of death, for field and forest, when flowers will shrink, verdure fade and the song of the blithesome bird be lost in the meaning cry of the dying year.

NO KICK HERE.

The EAGLE, a few weeks since, called the attention of the people to the fact that our expenses as a city were going to be increased by the new administration, and that we thought some of the proposed increases unnecessary. We suggested that it was very suddenly discovered that there was room for more officers and that salaries could be fixed for every officer, from mayor down. Men who did not expect anything when they ran for office, and who ran just as fast before and worked just as hard ever since as though no salary had been attached, and who would do so again, now want a salary. We further suggested that the next thing would be an increase of officers, such as a fire marshal, and then an assistant fire marshal, then assistance to the city attorney on every important suit, and so on and so on.

Now, the EAGLE is not going to do any high and lofty kicking against that which is a fore-gone conclusion. Some of these added expenses are necessary and proper. Some of them are not. They are all, however, now inevitable. All we desire is to call the attention of the people to what we said and ask them to keep an eye on the program from this on, so that when the thing is fully accomplished, they may know how it was done and who did it.

ATTENTION KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

All Sir Knights intending to go to St. Louis are especially requested to be present at drill this evening.

Attorney McAvoy's appeal in behalf of outraged justice in Judge Garrison's court yesterday afternoon, is said to have been the very acme of Irish eloquence, probably unrivaled as a forensic effort in all the history of jurisprudence so far as this particular neck of woods is concerned. So completely did he capture the crowd, which consisted of such discerning gentlemen as John Fisher, Uncle Billy Ross, Col. Woodcock and a host of others, that it was immediately resolved to invite General McAvoy to address the survivors of the Mexican war at the earliest date, at the G. A. R., the General having been a soldier in that war, and all the boys considering themselves genuine survivors of that memorable conflict.

Wm. T. Jewett has received an invitation from the Kansas City fair association, including free tickets and transportation, to attend the Kansas City Interstate exposition as one of the judges of the cattle ring. The invitation comes through general passenger agent Jewett of the Missouri Pacific at Kansas City. Our old friend will no doubt accept the invitation, and we hope he may have a pleasant time.
